By Air

Hefei Xinqiao International Airport replaced the old Hefei Luogang International Airport and started its operation on May 30, 2013 00:00. This new domestic aviation hub is located in Gaoliu Village situated in the northwestern part of Hefei City. The first arriving flight was China Eastern Airlines flight MU5172 from Beijing Capital International Airport. The first departing flight was China Eastern Airlines MU5468 to Shanghai Pudong International Airport. Hefei Xinqiao International Airport provides scheduled passenger service to major airports in China and other international cities. Destinations include Hong Kong, Macao, Singapore, Taipei (Taoyuan, Songshan), Kaohsiung, Taichung, Seoul, Cheongju, Yangyang, Jeju, Osaka, Nagoya, Shizuoka, Okayama, Boracay Island, Bali Island, Frankfurt, Siem Reap, Bangkok, Phuket Island and Krabi Island.

By Train

There are two train stations in Hefei. The newest one is Hefei South Railway Station (合肥南站) where most high-speed trains pass through. Many city buses serve this station, for instance the 108 from the East gate of the University of Science and Technology's East campus on Susong road. It has a very comprehensive taxi rank with multiple queues to avoid a long wait. There are many fast food restaurants in the departure hall with seating. There are not so many options for arrivals, a small cafe and a takeaway kfc booth. There is an ATM in the ticket sales area next to the security gates for the departure hall.

The alternative station is Hefei Railway Station (合肥火车站) which is smaller and older. This has only one taxi queue, directly opposite the main exit. There is fast food, a post office and a China mobile store in the same courtyard next to the arrival gates.

Due to its geographic advantage, it has assembled many of the surrounding areas' flavors but still maintains the flavor of ancient Luzhou Cuisine. Visitors to the city can still taste the four special dishes - Luzhou Roast Duck, Lord Bao Fish etc.

Hefei

Hefei Cuisine is with both history and diversity. The city is not only offering a way to present its various local dishes but also offering an alternative for foreign restaurants.

Crayfish

Crayfish (小龙虾 xiǎo lóngxiā). This is Hefei's signature food. The longxia are boiled and then eaten with dipping sauces, usually vinegary or spicy. One pound (一斤 yījīn) of longxia is now around ¥50. Longxia are known as a spicy food and are typically eaten outside with beer. Chinese are often selective about where they buy longxia because longxia needs to be cleaned and cooked thoroughly.

Hefei's most famous longxia street is Ningguó Rd. 宁国路龙虾美食街 Níngguó lù lóngxiā m ěi shí ji ě).

Another good area to find longxia is Hupo eat street (琥珀山庄美食街 Hǔpò shānzhāng m ěi shí ji ě).

Luzhou Roast Duck

For those who have been to Beijing they have never forgotten the good taste of Beijing Roast Duck. Now when you come to the city, the Luzhou Roast Duck must be the first recommended cuisine by the local tour guide. Luzhou Roast Duck originally was served to the royal court as the imperial dish. Until the period of Ming Dynasty (1368 - 1644) this cuisine could be found being cooked by local families. You will be attracted by the Duck's golden yellow shininess, crisp skin and tender meat. Compared to Beijing Roast Duck, it has moderate fat and salt, rich taste, and plentiful nutrients. Find the famous Luzhou Roast Duck

Shop at No.107, Suzhou Road, and No. 1072 East Changjiang Road.

Lord Bao Fish

Lord Bao Fish is another well-known dish. This fish was originally found in a moat called Lord Bao River; hence it got the name Lord Bao Fish. This cuisine is a traditional cold dish - tender meat and dark reddish crisp skin. Caocao Chicken also called 'Xiaoyao Chicken' was said to have been liked by the Wei Emperor Caocao during the period of Three Kingdoms (220 - 420). The chicken is made with medicinal herbs, thus is good for health. These two dishes can be found in most restaurants in the city.

Li Hongzhang Hodgepodge

The last specialty dish called Li Hongzhang Hodgepodge Cuisine is also very delicious. It is said that this dish was an invention of the Li Hongzhang's cook once when Li Hongzhang (a minister of Qing Dynasty who was in charge of foreign affairs) treated some American guests. The raw materials in this cuisine include holothurian (sea cucumber), sleeve-fish, chicken, ham, pig liver and spinach which are all braised with chicken soup, thus it smells fragrant and

In addition, Honggao (baked cake), Mabing (sesame cake), Baijie (white sesame slices), Cunjin (sesame cookie) are recommended high quality specialties, made with refined, shelled sesames along with choice white sugar, flour and sesame oil, and treated with a special technique. Crisp, sweet, and fragrant are these cookies' characteristics.

To judge on a city's international level, the number international schools is a key indicator. In this level, Hefei needs to do more in the field of catering expats kids education.

Hefei

Simple, only one International school - The Canadian International School of Hefei.

The Canadian International School of Hefei provides a world class education, developing the whole child within an empathetic, multicultural community. We are committed to enabling all students to reach their own unique potential, becoming environmentally conscious, globally minded life-long learners.

Canadian International School of Hefei is a candidate school* for the Primary Years Programme and the Middle Years Programme. This school is pursuing authorization as an IB World School. These are schools that share a common philosophy – a commitment to high quality, challenging, international education that Canadian International School of Hefei believes is important for our students.

*Only schools authorized by the IB Organization can offer any of its three academic programmes: Primary Years Programme (PYP), the Middle Years Programme (MYP), or the Diploma Programme, and in addition the IB Career-related Certificate). Candidate status gives no guarantee that authorization will be granted..

The core beliefs at CISH include individual accountability and a positive belief in people, and we strive to nurture these qualities in all students. Integrity, both personal and academic, is adherence to moral and ethical principles, and a value we hold as an absolute good as our students grow from children into principled young adults. It also recognizes the absolute value in learning for its own sake and not simply as a means to an end, be that end higher grades, recognition, or an easier workload.

In addition to the strong focus on academic achievement, CISH also support activities that further other aspects of student development. These special events sometimes occur in place of regular classes or outside of them. They also may vary from year to year as opportunities and demands change.

The core subjects are Mathematics, English, Social Studies, Science and Second Language, with a focus on understanding, communication, making connections and problem solving.

On Monday to Thursday from 3:00pm-3:30pm, students in Kindergarten to Grade 8 are expected to participate in an after-class activities program, from a schedule that is drawn up four times each year. At each time, students may select from a range of activities (language development, arts and crafts, music, performances, games, information technology, writing and editing for the school newspaper or year-book).

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS PROGRAMS

CISH offers a wide range of after-school sports and athletics activities, as well as participation in extra-curricular interscholastic sports programs, including soccer (Middle and High School), basketball and badminton.

New - Cardiff and Vale College

The English School has made agreement with the Hefei Government about the establishment of a new International school in the Yaohai District.

As the second campus in China (the first one is in Shanghai) it's planned to start after a few years.
